

For a moment nobody spoke. Then Sarah whispered:

"Did that bear just steal our marshmallows?"

"Those were the good ones."

Soon the campsite filled with relieved laughter. The bear was gone. Everyone was safe. And the only thing missing... was dessert.